GALICIA IS IN REVOLT

Opposition Disputed. Reports Springing from Belgrade. Adherents: All Over the Country. Italian Troops Move into Hungarian Territory.

By Associated Press.
PARIS, March 27.—The league of nations commission of the peace conference, with President Wilson in the chair, met for three hours last night and completed its consideration of the covenant of the league. The covenant was referred to a drafting committee. This committee will go through the document, correct its wording where necessary and refer it back to the commission as soon as possible, probably within two days, for final consideration by the commission before it is reported to the executive committee of the peace conference. The covenant still contains 28 articles, though amendment has been incorporated which specifically meets the desire of Japan for recognition of national equality.

JAPS INSIST ON RACE EQUALITY

PARIS, Wednesday, March 26.—The Japanese delegation to the peace conference continued to press today for an amendment to the covenant of the league which would go as far as the conference was willing to concede towards the promulgation of the principle of equality of races. The original Japanese proposal, which met with a speedy rejection, has been modified by them several times until as it stood today it called for "recognition of the equality of nations and just treatment of all their nationals."

ROBERT P. KEFOVER DRIVES INTO RIVER AT MASONTOWN; HE AND HORSE ARE DROWNED

High House Man Becomes Confused in Darkness and Loses Way.

HIS BODY IS RECOVERED

Becoming confused while driving from Masontown toward his home at High House last night, Robert P. Kefover, 62 years old, drove into the Monongahela river at Masontown and was drowned, as was his horse. In his course into the stream Mr. Kefover drove through shallow water at the river's edge onto a ferry boat anchored six or eight feet away, and then off the boat into 10 feet of water, it is stated. Some one living near heard the commotion in the water and notified William Ward, the ferryman. With the aid of a light the horse and buggy were found near the boat. Both were submerged but were visible, the water being very clear. This morning the body of Kefover was found 400 feet below the boat. Mr. Kefover had been to Masontown on a buying trip. He left town at 10 o'clock. He was seen a short time later on another road and the supposition is he became lost in the darkness. Until eight years ago Mr. Kefover had been a resident of Old Frame. He then moved to High House where he had since lived. He was 62 years old.

SUGGESTIONS AS TO MONROE DOCTRINE CAME FROM TAFT

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 27.—The text of the proposed amendment to the league of nations covenant suggested by former President Taft which was considered by President Wilson and the Allied plenipotentiaries in Paris yesterday was sent from the White House less than a week ago, after Mr. Taft had been assured by Secretary Tumulty that any suggestions from him would be welcomed by the President. This became known today at the White House. Several suggestions were made by Mr. Taft, the principal one dealing with the Monroe Doctrine. This was stated officially but White House officials declined to give out the text of the communication. The former president talked over the telephone with Mr. Tumulty last week and made known his desire to make some suggestions if they would be welcomed in Paris. When Mr. Tumulty told him President Wilson would be glad to receive them the proposals were forwarded to the White House. Several days ago a message was received at the White House extending the President's thanks to Mr. Taft.

MINSTREL SHOW A SUCCESS; IS TO BE REPEATED TONIGHT

Large Audience Out For Soldier Benefit at High School.

WHOLE PROGRAM IS GOOD

Sale of Seats for Tonight Confirmed and Indications Are Every Seat in Auditorium Will be Taken; An Improved Performance is Promised.
A large audience at the high school auditorium last night enjoyed the initial performance of the minstrel show for the benefit of the homecoming celebration. The whole program went through with only two disappointments, John Davis, who was to sing "Some Day" in the first part, was unavoidably detained, but arrived in time to take his place in the Yough quartet in the olio, and Miss Bertha King, one of the end ladies, was taken sick yesterday and was unable to attend. "Doc" Buttermore made a decided hit with his "Buckwheat Cakes." Harry Louder, who sang "Come On, Papa," was vigorously applauded. "Doc" Huston put a little novelty into the chorus of "Sailin' Away on the Henry Clay" when he danced it, rivaling the professional entertainer. Miss Rene Stinson's song, "Rip Van Winkle Slept With One Eye Open" was met with approval by the audience. The ballads, too, were appreciated, especially George Wilson's "Ring Out Sweet Bells of Peace," which interprets the spirit of the people of the United States today. Ray McClintock brought much applause in both his song "Mary" and his part in the olio. Louis Simons brought many laughs in his monologue, which was somewhat of a novelty for a local minstrel show. Miss Stinson and "Doc" Huston were fine in their specialty act which was met with a hearty applause. The show this evening bids to be much better because of the further practice that they have had in last night. The reserved seats will be continued until 7 o'clock when they may be reserved at the high school. The bad weather today is not expected to hinder the performance this evening in the least.

STEEL CORPORATION SAFETY, SANITATION AND WELFARE WORK

During Past Year Subject of a Very Interesting Publication.

CONNELLSVILLE REGION

Figures Largely in Furnishing Examples of the Achievements in the Direction of Safer Methods, Better Living and Better Citizenship.

It is only by careful examination of Bulletin No. 7 of the bureau of safety sanitation and welfare of the United States Steel Corporation, that a comprehensive idea can be obtained of the extent and variety of these activities at the numerous plants of this great industrial enterprise.

This publication, which is being distributed in the coke region with the compliments of Clay F. Lynch, general superintendent of the H. C. Frick Coke company, is a magnificently printed and illustrated pamphlet of over 100 pages which gives a complete description of the safety organization of the United States Steel Corporation. This organization consists of the committee on safety which sends inspectors from one subsidiary company to go over another company's operations. The committee makes a careful study of accidents and recommends methods to prevent their recurrence. It also passes upon safety devices.

The committee on sanitation is composed of the presidents of four subsidiary companies and an official of the corporation, with a sub-committee
from each of the larger companies.
The committee passes upon sanitary devices and regulations, directs inspections and employs sanitary engineers to handle special problems.

The central safety committee is composed of important officials from each of the plants, mines or railroad divisions. Its duties are similar to those of the corporation safety committee, but with reference to its particular company. In addition there is the plant safety committee made up of important officials at each plant. The workmen's safety committee consists of three men from the rank and file,
the members of which are changed periodically so that each man in a plant shall serve upon the committee.

Department and special committees composed of foremen, master mechanics and skilled workmen make periodical inspections and conduct special investigations of particular problems.
To December 1913, 22,000 employees
have served on these committees. 5-993 of whom were at that time serving.
The information given in Bulletin
No. 7 relates to the practical application of the latest devices, methods and practices employed at the different plants of the corporation in order to reduce the hazards of employment, to safeguard the health and generally to make better workmen and citizens of all employees. The establishment of first aid stations, hospitals, bathing facilities, wash rooms, locker systems, instructions in home economics
for the wives and daughters of workmen, home nursing and the care of children, Americanization schools, recreations and amusements, physical trainings, play grounds, dental clinics, gardening, canning and preserving and the storage of fruits and vegetables and other activities are treated with informing detail by this interesting publication.

The Conneltsville region figures largely in some of these features
many illustrations being used to show what is being done at the plants of the H. C. Frick Coke company to realize the largest purpose of the campaign for safety, better working and living conditions and better citizenship. Among the illustrations are the following: Concrete watering troughs
for mine horses and mules, shower baths for pit stock, cooking and infant nursing classes at Calumet, Italian band of Union Supply company, playground at Phillips mine, children's picnic in charge of visiting nurse at Calumet, employees' gardens at Leisenring, Leckrone, Trotter, Standard and Filibert mines.

During 1913 there were 7,224 vegetable and 127 flower gardens cultivated by the employees of the H. C. Frick Coke company. The total of the vegetable garden products was estimated at $299,313.22, or an average of $41.43 per garden. The employees of the Hostetter Conneltsville Coke company cultivated 267 gardens, the value of the product being $9,440, or an average of $35.00 per garden.

The magnitude of the welfare work being done by the United States Steel Corporation is shown by the fact that during 1913 the expenditures on account thereof reached a total of $10-$48,980.26. Of this amount $3,171,994-88 was paid for the relief of injured men and to families of men killed,
which is paid in all cases regardless of liability. To promote accident prevention the sum of $998,806.94 was expended; sanitation, $2,406,351.68;
welfare, $1,652,956.42; to the pension
fund for support of superannuated employees, $1,243,270.34; employees' stock subscription, $1,175,000.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the function and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing debility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life.
Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

TWELVE HUNDRED AMERICAN WOMEN GO TO EUROPE FOR Y. M. C. A. WORK SINCE NOV. 11

PARIS, March 25.—Over 1,200 American women in the uniform of the Y.
M. C. A. have come to France since the signing of the armistice to fill the lonely, idle hours of America's warriors over here whose idea of the superlative "nothing to do" is to have an army job when there's no war.

Home is the only thing the bored and homesick American soldiers in Europe want today, and since many of them can't get to it for some time to come, the Y. M. C. A. is bringing home to them, in the presence of about 2,500 American girls, double the number that were here during hostilities.
The doughboy has asked for more and still more, and when the doughboy
asks for something, the "Y" regards the request as an official order and gets it for him. Consequently, the "Y" girls who are so much in demand with the A. E. F. are being rushed as fast as possible to the "scene of inaction,"
and every boat brings a load of them.
Over three hundred a month are being landed now.

The girls are assigned to 26 leave areas, three debarkation ports, butts
and hotels in Paris, and to various divisions of the Army of Occupation.
Over one hundred of the new contingent are clerks in the business department, but the rest are here just to be good friends to the A. E. F. They sing to the men, dance with them, give parties for them, make candy for them, sew on their buttons, listen to their love stories, or their war tales, and in general keep them so busy and interested that they forget to "miss the war," as they complained they did when the truce was first called. Now that the post exchanges have been assumed by the Army, the job of "tending store" is taken off the shoulders of the "Y" workers, and the girls have still more time to play the gracious hostesses to their uniformed guests in
Y. M. C. A. huts and hotels over here.

Seventy-seven "Y" girls are in Paris, distributed among 18 centers, where 10,000 soldiers and sailors gather

every day. Brest and Dijon have important centers; Grigny, Cligny, Versailles and Orly are busy places for the Y. M. C. A. Keeping up with the
A. E. F. is also a strenuous job, for wherever the soldiers go in Germany,
the "Y" tries to be there first, with an emergency hut, set up and "welcome on the spot" in the form of soap,
a quantity of books and best of all, girls.
Most of the girls in the ranks of the Y. M. C. A. are college girls, junior league girls and social workers. Many of them have come in college units,
such as Smith, Barnard, Wellesley, Newcomb and Vassar. The units are not kept intact, however, when assignments are made. Every girl is chosen for her post according to her particular ability, for every group must have as many talents and trades
as possible, in order to meet the needs of all kinds of men. There is only one talent that all "Y" girls must share in common; that's a limitless capacity for good times, for good times the soldier must have and the "Y" girl is the one to give it to him.

The Ideal Woman.

The great Napoleon once said: "My ideal woman is not the beautiful-featured society belle, whose physician tries in vain to keep her in repair, but the matron who reaches middle age in complete preservation—that woman is rendered beautiful by perfect health." To attain such health in middle life a woman must guard against those ills which drag her down and produce nervousness, headache, backaches, sleeplessness and "the blues."
The standard remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for forty-five years has been restoring women to health and strength.—Adv.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get
at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels
and positively do the work.
People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath
by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently
but firmly on the bowels and liver,
stimulating them to natural action,
clearing the blood and gently purifying
the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening,
gripping cathartics are derived from Dr.
Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping,
pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

PETEY DINK—Petey Made a Mistake Trying to Disguise Himself

By C. A. VOIGHT

You Profit By Our Bigness

Our size enables us to:—

- Furnish cash markets for all live-stock offered;
- Operate at minimum costs;
- Stay in business on a profit of only 2 cents on the dollar of sales;
- Eliminate waste;
- Get the surplus live-stock products from the West to the millions of consumers in the East.

There is No Menace in Size:—

- As long as we are in keen competition with the other packers;
- As long as there are hundreds of firms in the business;
- As long as we handle only about 12 per cent of the meat supply of the country and only about 22 per cent of the meat that is inspected by the United States Government;
- As long as our bigness is used to your advantage—as it is now—and as it must be in the future if we are to do a profitable business. The permanence of a business depends on the goodwill of those it serves. No large business can prosper that is not recognized as giving in exchange for its earnings an equivalent measure of helpful service.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

FRENCH PREFER FOOTBALL OR DUELING TO ROUGH AMERICAN GAME OF BASEBALL

Popular Player Who Has Returned From France.

France, the country that went through the fightingest war in history without batting an eye, will never adopt baseball as a national pastime because the game is "too rough."

This was learned from no less an authority than Capt. Christopher Mathewson, who has just arrived from France.

Although the Polus have bravely attempted a few games under American tutelage, "they're more afraid of a hard-hit liner or grounder than they are of a German T," according to Mathewson.

Rotten infield work. "Their infield work is rotten," said Christy. "They can run bases all right, but they get little opportunity because they can't bat. And I don't believe you could pick up a first-class catcher in all of France. Every time a Frenchman gets behind a bat he wants to retreat about ten paces, erect a barbed-wire entanglement, dig himself a dugout and crawl into it."

"No, the Frenchman will never take to baseball in a big way. He prefers something more gentle, such as football and dueling."

MAKE PREPARATIONS FOR SPORT REVIVAL

Big Year Is Predicted in the World of Athletics.

Horse Racing Promises to Enjoy One of its Best Seasons—Billiards, Bowling and Many Lesser Sports to Shine.

The revival of interest that the coming of peace will bring to sport will obtain in every branch.

Horse racing, always a major sport, promises to enjoy one of the best seasons it has seen in a decade. On eastern tracks, where racing maintained its great popularity in spite of the war, and did its bit in the way of generous contributions to war charities of every sort, the 1913 season is expected to boom.

Harness racing on the tracks of the Grand circuit also will come back with a bang. The railbirds who follow the harness events are confident that their favorite sport will thrive as never before.

Auto racing, too, is coming back after a period of spasmodic activity extending over the last three years. The big 500-mile classic at Indianapolis, long recognized as the blue ribbon event of the auto racing season, is to be revived.

Officials of the New York Yacht club and other yachting organizations are planning an active season. But pending the formation of definite plans for yachting events announcements are being withheld.

Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the renewal of the series for the America's cup, threw an unexpected stimulant into the midst of plans for the revival of yachting, and though the challenge will not be accepted by the New York Yacht club before the summer of 1920, it is bound to have its effect in speeding up the comeback of the sport.

Also will be revived during the year, though on what scale has not been determined.

Billiards, bowling, basketball, indoor baseball, association football and many lesser sports will all be brought forth, dusted off and given a new start. Championship matches in billiards, basketball, indoor baseball, association football and many lesser sports will all be brought forth, dusted off and given a new start.

Championship matches in billiards, basketball, indoor baseball, association football and many lesser sports will all be brought forth, dusted off and given a new start. The future ahead of football, particularly in college circles, is surcharged with optimism. The grid game will be brought back in all its glory next fall, according to the predictions of its optimistic followers; in the East the big three—Yale, Harvard and Princeton—will pull away from the "informal" game and the old time

BIG CHOE BILLS NOT NECESSARY

It looks as if I would not be able to wear out my shoes with Neolin Soles. They have been in service about a year, and are still good," writes W. C. Dickinson of New Haven, Conn. It is natural that shoes with Neolin Soles should wear a long time, for Neolin Soles give extra wear where most shoes wear out quickest.

These long-lasting soles are made by Science to be especially tough and durable—comfortable and waterproof, too. If you want to save money on shoes, buy them with Neolin Soles. Good shoe stores carry them in many styles for men, women, and children. And you can have your old shoes re-bottomed with Neolin Soles at any repair shop.

Neolin Soles are made by The Good-year Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wagon Tires—guaranteed to outwear all other tires.

In England baseball is compared to the "game of rounders" and in France the American pastime is slurred as "too dangerous." And people still wonder why differences crop up regarding the issue of nations.

Laying the Rails for Future Business

OUR BIG FREIGHT
TERMINALS ARE CONSTANTLY
CONGESTED—NEW AND LARGER ONES ARE NEEDED.

By FRANCIS H. SIBSON,
Vice-President Guaranty Trust Co. of
New York.

What should be done with the railroads?
That is one of the most vital questions of the day.

Should they revert to their owners' management under the same complicated system of diverse governmental supervision that obtained before the United States took over the properties? Or shall the present condition of private ownership and federal management be continued for a term of years, perhaps permanently? Or shall the Government take the roads over altogether, leaving as well as managing them? Or shall they be turned back to private management at the earliest possible moment compatible with the welfare of railroads and public alike, but under a new system of centralized governmental supervision?

Under the law passed August 28, 1916, the President on December 23, 1917, assumed control of all transportation within the boundaries of the country, this control becoming effective on December 23, 1917, except for purposes of accounting, the control of which began December 31, 1917. The carrying out of this operation and control was delegated to William G. McAdoo, as Director General of Railroads.

On March 21, 1918, Congress passed a law regulating the control and defining the details of its operation. It expressly stated that this was emergency legislation and in no way expressed the future policy of the government.

This Federal control was to continue during the period of the war and not to exceed 21 months after the ratification of the peace treaty, the returning of the roads to their owners at any time within that period being left to the discretion of the President.

This new treatment had general approval as a means of meeting the emergency of war. But what of tomorrow? The present Government control of the roads cannot be considered a solution of the problem. It has, however, taught a valuable lesson. The strong hand of the Government has released the railroads from many of their shackles and by co-ordinating direction and operation has been restoring their ability to serve the public. It is of the utmost importance that we take steps to make these advantages permanent.

We are beginning to appreciate the prophecy of James J. Hill made in 1907, when he said that American railroads would need to expend at least $1,000,000,000 annually on construction and improvements for the succeeding five years if they would completely handle the business of the country. That would have meant spending $5,000,000,000 between 1907 and 1912. As a matter of fact, less than half that was spent in the ten years between 1908 and 1918, and the cost of road and equipment during that period rose from $12,000,000,000 to $17,500,000,000, or about 40 per cent. Yet despite these serious han-

TO THE COAST—OTHER BIG PROJECTS OF THIS SORT IN PROSPECT

dships the ton mileage grew during the same period from slightly more than 215,800,000,000 to 345,100,000,000 or 45 per cent. The total tractive power increased 62.5 per cent and the capacity of freight cars 50.7 per cent. The increase in mileage in the meantime was only 14 per cent.

The new investments in railroads in 1914 aggregated $512,000,000. In 1915 it was $263,000,000 and in 1916 only $258,000,000.

This falling off in railroad investment is one of the most serious features of the problem. It is certain that if we are going to have private ownership and operation of transportation in the future, we must as a first step restore railroad credit. The folly of the Government's past attitude toward the railroads has been strikingly exemplified in the policy of restricting the earnings of the road with no guarantee of return to those

Naturally the result was an undermining of railway credit and a robbing of the companies of their only source of funds for increasing their services.

The increase in the country's population between 1908 and 1916 was a little less than 20 per cent. A corresponding increase in commercial and industrial capacity will require a proportionate increase of ton mileage per capita. To do this we must attract private capital to the railroad field.

This we have not been doing. Since 1890 the rate of return on railroad investments has ranged from 3.35 per cent to 5.72 per cent. At the same time the returns on investments in manufacturing averaged as high as 17.12 per cent in 1900 and considering the unusual returns yielded by war industries during the last two years. Unless the Government's future policy er toward railroads is such as to insure fair regulations and just returns which will be absolutely essential if new capital in sufficient quantity is to be attracted the development of our great resources in the west, northwest and southwest will be arrested and the retarding of such development will be a national economic disaster.

One vital fact is apparent today above all others—the scepter in the railroad world has passed out of the hands of the railroads' executives and the bankers who financed them. The American people control the situation through their political representatives, and they will determine the whole course of the future.

No class of people will exercise so powerful an influence in reaching this decision as the shippers. They must learn if they have not learned already that the thing of most vital importance to them is getting their goods to market. The rates at which this service is rendered are incidental. The long struggle of the shippers to hold down rates in defiance of the economic trend of the times and the obvious necessities of the railroad situation has worked the undoing of the shippers, as well as of the railroads.

It is obvious that we should adopt a definite, comprehensive and adequate policy for developing our railroad extensions on a policy based on definite terms, factors. It seems very certain that from the present plan of coordinated, centralized operation with its many savings and added efficiencies more possible by Government control, there will be no reversion to the old system of competitive private ownership and conflicting regulation.

If not that, then what do we face? On every hand we hear the prophecy made that the present control of the railroads by the Government is but the first step toward Government ownership and that once unified under Government direction the railroads will never be "unscrambled."

But in no country in the world where Government ownership of railroads has been attempted has it been successful with the single exception of Russia, where, under the arbitrary mandates of a military autocrat, some degree of efficiency and profit has been secured. Further, in no important instance has the experience of our own Government in business operation or ownership of any form of public utilities been such as to warrant the conclusion that such activity could be profitably extended.

The privately owned railroads of the United States have the lowest freight rates the lowest capitalization per mile the greatest operating efficiency and pay the highest wages of any railroads in the world.

If private ownership has failed, both when unregulated and when overregulated and Government ownership gives no promise of success, what plan offers for meeting the situation?

Various suggestions of a central Federal corporation, regional holding companies, Government guarantees and plans calling for profit sharing with the Government above a fixed return have been frequently made. Somewhere along this line of thought lies the rational solution. It is very certain that the old days of enforced competition and trust laws and pooling laws, conflicting State regulation, wasteful competition, duplication of service, would not be permitted by a public alive to its own interests.

It seems equally certain that Government ownership would not be permitted if the public were equally alive to its real interests. The hour has arrived for the suggestion of some plan which must be made ready for adoption as soon as possible, now that the crisis of war has passed. Somewhere within the meaning of the words "cooperation" and "partnership" lies the answer. The public interest is paramount, but public interest and private interest need not be in conflict if intelligently regarded.

Regional companies representing both private and public capital under private operation with governmental participation in the management and earnings above a just guarantee would seem to assure the necessary expansion of railroad facilities. In very certain interest and in desirable progress, to secure the desired goal would be possible.

6—Secure a number of young women in the county to take the proposed Red Cross course in public health nursing and employ one or more public health nurses for work in the county, in the care of needy families and the creation of more sanitary conditions in the home as well as in the different communities.

7—Continue Red Cross production of refugee garments until such time as the executive committee feels the work should be concluded, using material in the hands of the chapter, branches and auxiliaries for the making of all such garments. At the conclusion of Red Cross production, turn over all unused material to division headquarters to be used by them for relief purposes in Europe.

8—Work in harmony and conjunction with national and division headquarters in carrying on all such work as deemed within the scope of Red Cross activities.

9—Conduct campaigns, such as the present drive for used clothing, and assist as an organization in the work of reconstruction and the furnishing of relief to the stricken people of Europe.

10—Organize a bureau for returning soldiers and sailors, to assist them in securing employment and in this connection gain the assistance and cooperation of other organized bodies.

Note—Steps already taken for the organization of such a bureau, as the matter could not be delayed to await the action of the county chapter.

11—Maintain necessary data on the county's nursing resources and other detailed information which would be of value in case of emergencies such as the recent influenza epidemic.

12—Maintain a card index of the Red Cross membership of the county chapter with the view of having these renewed from year to year, thus giving a certain fixed revenue.

13—As an emergency service to aid in meeting the extensive havoc wrought by the recent influenza epidemic extend assistance to families whose distress is manifestly due to the epidemic in accordance with a plan as outlined by a division headquarters.

14—For the carrying out of this program, as above outlined, utilize funds in the hands of the chapter—the chapter's share of the recent campaign.

DOES SAVING PAY?

Here's What One Man Says About It.

"For ten years after I was married, said a man well known in Conneltsville, 'I didn't save a cent. We spent my wages foolishly as soon as earned. Our home was shabby. We never had money for new things. Then one day I saw a light and began putting 10 per cent of my pay as soon as I got it in a savings account with the First National Bank. Did it pay? Why that was five years ago and today we have accumulated a nice sum and besides we have a better home, better clothes, better food and more healthy fun than we ever had before.' Saving paid this man and it will pay YOU. Try it. Your account is welcome at the First National Liberal interest.—Adv.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The Prisoners Escape.

The two men followed me silently as far as the companion, where we paused a moment staring blindly about us into the fog. Even the guard at the main hatch was invisible.

"Carter guard this after deck until Watkins and I come back. Under no circumstances permit LeVere to enter the cabin."

With the door closed, we were plunged into a darkness which rendered the interior invisible. I wondered dimly why the man on guard had not lighted the swinging lantern I stumbled over something on the deck as I groped forward, but did not pause until I had lighted the lantern. It blazed up brightly enough to show the first thing I saw was the outstretched figure of the sailor almost between my feet. We need not ask no questions. Imagine nothing—the overturned chair the stricken sailor told the whole story. He had been truthfully struck from behind, the blade driven home by a strong hand, and was dead before he fell to the deck. It had been silent, venomous murder, and the assassin had left no trace. Who could it have been? Not Gunter surely—the steward lacked both nerve and strength for such a deed. Then there was but one to suspect—Sanchez?

I flung open the pantry door, but one glance inside told me that Gunter had vanished. On the deck lay the strands of rope with which he had been secured—they had been severed by a sharp knife, the ends discolored with blood stains. I held these out to Watkins.

The Stricken Sailor Told the Whole Story.

"Cut since the murder," I said, "and by the same knife. What do you make of it, Tom?"

"Well, sir, the thing he'd most likely try for would be to release them from their bonds. My idea is, sir, he thought he'd have time to get the bulkhead door open, before anybody could get below—he and the steward who'd know what the tools was. That was the scheme, only we busted in too quick. That's what they both are—skulking back in their shadows."

He stired the smoking lantern back onto the shelf to have his hands free for action and drew a cutlass out of the arm rack, running on leatherly thumb along the blade to test its sharpness. His eyes sought mine questioningly.

"Probably your guess is the right one," I said soberly. "We'll give it a trial."

Murder had been committed for a purpose—it was the first step in an effort to retake the ship. If we were to retain our advantage there was no time to be lost. We were pitted now against Silva Sanchez, and he was a leader not to be despised or temporized with, no cowardly brainless fool.

The passage leading forward was wide enough to permit of our advancing together and for a few steps the light dribbled in past us quite sufficient for guidance. I had been down this tunnel once before and knew the bulkhead was not far away, but the few steps necessary plunged us into profound blackness through which we advanced cautiously with outstretched hands. No slightest sound warned of danger and I was already convinced, my own mind that the refugees were not hiding there, when it happened.

Within an instant we were fighting for our lives. Fronted not by two men, but by a score, who lunged themselves curling upon us. Their very numbers and the narrowness of the passage was our only salvation. At first our resistance was blind enough guided only by the senses of touch and sound. We could see nothing of our antagonists, although their fierce rush hurled us backward. I fired into the mass, as Watkins slashed madly with his cutlass, both managing in some way to keep our feet. Hands gripped for us, a bedlam of oaths splitting the air; yet, even in that moment of pandemonium, I was quick to realize the fellows were weaponless, seeking only to reach and crush us with their hands.

The same discovery must have come to the mind of the sailor, for he yelled it out defiantly, every stroke of his blade drawing blood. I joined him.

striking with the butt of the pistol. We killed and wounded, the curses of hate changed into sharp cries of agony, but those behind pressed the advance forward, and we were inevitably swept back into the light of the cabin lamp.

Then I saw faces, hideous in the glare, demonic in their expression of hatred—a mass of them, unrecognizable, largely of a wild, half-Indian type, with here and there a bearded white. Now were they all bare-headed, in many a grip flashed a knife, and directly fronting me, with a meat cleaver uplifted to strike, Sanchez yelled his orders. Ignoring all others I leaped straight at him crying to Watkins as I sprang.

"Back! dash out that light! I'll hold these devils here a minute!" I did—God knows how! It was like no fighting ever I had done before, a mad, furious melee amid which I lost all consciousness of action, all guidance of thought, struggling as a wild brute, with all the reckless strength of insanity. It is a dim, vague recollection I am sure I felled Sanchez with one blow of my pistol butt, in some way that deadly cleaver came into my hands and I trod on his body, swinging the sharp blade with all my might into those scowling faces. They gave suddenly backward, they had to, yelping and snarling like a pack of wolves, hacking at me with their short knives. I was cut again and again. I stood on quivering flesh craved with blood, and seeking only to kill I saw faces crushed in, arms severed, the sudden spurting of blood from ghastly wounds. Oaths mingled with cries of agony and shouts of hate. Then in an instant the light was dashed out and all was darkness.

It was as though my brain snapped back into ascendancy. I was no longer a raging fury mad with the desire to kill, but cool-headed, planning escape. Before a hand could reach me in constraint, I sprang backward and ran. I stumbled up the stairs leading to the companion. The vague glimmer of daylight showing through the glass, revealed the presence of Watkins. I heard him dash the door wide open call to those on deck, and then saw him wheel about to again confront the devils plunging blindly forward toward us through the dark cabin. We could hold them for a time at least, yet I had the sense to know that the check would prove only temporary. They outnumbered us ten to one and would arm themselves from the rack. Yet the greater danger lay in the possibility of my own men. A dozen of us might hold these stairs against assault, but treachery would leave us helpless. If it came, among them should steal below forward and force open the door from the forecabin, we would be crushed between two waves of men, and left utterly helpless. I saw the whole situation vividly, and as quickly chose the one hope remaining.

"Watkins," I called sharply back over my shoulder. "Get the boats ready and be lively about it. We'll hold these fellows until you report. The two quartermasters will hold us all. Knock out the plugs in the others. See that Miss Fairfax is placed safely in the afterboat, and then stand by. Send me word the moment all is ready."

I had glimpse of the thick fog with-out as he pushed through the door, and of a scarcely distinguishable group of men on the deck. Those about me could only be located by their restless movements. I stepped down one stair conscious of increasing movement below, the meat cleaver still gripped in my hands.

"Any of you armed with cutlasses?" "Oui, monsieur, Ravel DeLasser."

"Stand here, to right of me now another at my left. Who are you?" "Jim Carter sir."

"Good, now strike hard, lads, and you others be ready. The cabin is full of 'em and it is your life and mine in the balance. If we can get away in this fog they'll never find us, but we've got to hold them here until the boats are ready. I killed their captain, Sanchez. That is where we're still got them, without a leader."

But they've got arms?

Only hand weapons, broke in Carter. "There's hail in the handkerchiefs, but no powder. I was going to break open a cask but Estada put me at another job."

"Then that leaves us on even footing lads we ought to be equal to them with the cold steel."

CHAPTER XXIV.

In Clasp of the Sea
The sounds of voices and of moving bodies were plainly discernible, but the darkness was too dense below to permit the eye perceiving what was taking place. The rattle of steel told me some among them had reached the arm rack. There followed the crash of wood as though the butt of a gun had splintered a door panel. Then a voice pierced the babel. My mind gripped the meaning of it all, they had found a leader, they had released Manuel Estevan. Now the real fight was on! I could hear the fellow question those about him, seeking to learn the situation.

"Who have cutlasses? So many! a dozen form with me. Now, bullies, they are on the stairs there, and that is the only way to the deck. Now then—to hell with 'em!"

We met them, point to point, our advantage the narrow staircase and the higher position. Theirs the faint glimmer of light at one back. The first rush was reckless and deadly, the infuriated devils not yet realizing what they faced but counting on force of numbers to crush our defense. Manuel led them yelling encouragement and sweeping his cutlass gripped with both hands in desperate effort to break through. DeLasser caught his point with his blade while my cleaver missing him with its sharp edge, nevertheless dealt the fellow a blow which hurled him back into the arms of the man behind. I saw nothing else in detail the faint light barely revealing indistinct figures and gleam of steel. It was a pandemonium of blows and yells strange faces appearing and disappearing as men leaped desperately at us up the steps, and we bent them remorselessly back. I saw nothing more of Manuel in the fray but his shell to my urged on his fellows. It was strike and parry, cut and thrust. Twice I kicked my legs free from hands that gripped me and DeLasser fell, a pile burst through him. Who took his place I never knew, but a stout fighter the lad was wielding his cutlass viciously, so that we held them, with dead men littering every step to the cabin deck.

But they were of a breed trained to such fighting and the lash of Manuel's tongue drove them into manly resistance. And there seemed no end of them, sweeping up out of those black shadows with bearded or lean brown savage faces, charging over the dead bodies, hacking and gouging in vain effort to break through. I struck until my arms ached, until my head reeled, scarcely conscious of physical action, yet aware of Manuel's shouts.

"Now, you bull heads—come! once more and you have them. Save Maria! you've got to go through, bullies—there is no other way to the deck. Rush 'em! That's the way! Here you go in outside the rail! Broth of hell! Now you have him, Pedro!"

For an instant I believed it true, I saw Jim Carter seized and buried side ways his cutlass clashing as it fell while a dozen hands dragged him headlong into the rack beneath. But it was only an instant. Before the charging devils could pass me, a huge figure filled the vacant space, and the butt of a gun crushed into the mass. It was the Dutchman Schmidt fighting like a demon his strength that of an ox. They gave way in terror before him and we went down battering our way until the stairs were clear to the deck except for the dead under foot. When we stopped not a fighting man was left within the sweep of our arms. They scurried back into the darkness like so many rats, and we could only stare about blindly cursing them as we endeavored to recover. "Smith! Schmidt! roared like a wild bull and would have rushed on but for my grip on his shirt."

The First Rush Was Reckless and Deadly.

"Get back, man!" I ordered sharply. "There may be fifty of them yonder. Our only chance is the stairs."

We flung the bodies on one side and formed again from rail to rail. Be low us there was noise enough, a babel of angry voices, but no movement of assault. What they would do next was answered by a blaze of light revealing the silhouette of a man engaged in touching flame to a torch of hemp. It flung forth a dull yellow flare and revealed a scene of horror. Our assailants were unsexed half-wild back. Between us, even ten feet from the stairs the deck was littered with bodies ghastly faces staring up with black stains of blood everywhere. It was Manuel's hand which had kindled the light, and the first croak of his voice told his purpose.

Now you standing cowards! he yelled pointing forward. Do you see what you are fighting? There are only five men between you and the deck. To hell with 'em! Come on! I'll show you the

COKE TRADE HOLDS ITS GROUND WITHOUT APPARENT GAIN OR LOSS

Such Change As Has Occurred
Is in the Direction of Greater Steadiness.

THE BUSINESS IS LIMITED

Had Cut in Iron and Steel Prices Been Heavier a Corresponding Reduction in Coke Might Have Been Demanded;
The Existing Ratio Is Much Too Low.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

PITTSBURGH, March 26.—The coke market has not lost any ground in the past week and is, if anything, a shade steadier. It is a case of no news being good news, for with declining activity a steel mill and blast furnace the coke market would naturally be expected to be in line and when it passes a week without losing ground the development is a favorable one. There is no change in quotable market prices for coke, standard brands of furnace coke being held at $4.00 as minimum while foundry coke ranges from $1.50 to $6.00 according to brand. In such limited business as is done in furnace coke the price is usually $4.00. There are higher asking prices than this but furnaces do not need to pay them, since they can get desirable brands at $4.00, while on the other hand there are offerings of off grades at less than $4.00 and furnaces do not want such coke even though it is cheaper. There is less demurrage coke being forced on the market than formerly, and indeed there is now hardly any production being so closely regulated to the requirements of contracts and of regular sales made.

The coke market thus remains quotable as follows:

Furnace	$4.00
Foundry	$1.50 to $6.00

The common opinion among coke operators seems to be that the coke trade neither gained nor lost anything by the readjustment in iron and steel prices late last week. Pig iron was reduced $1.25 per ton. If it had been reduced much more than that coke operators would probably have been called upon to make additional price concessions, particularly on contracts that call for a monthly price fixing, and thus they have escaped that danger. While pig iron has now declined a total of $7.25 from the war prices, coke seems to have made its fair contribution by declining from $4.00 to $4.00. Lake Superior iron ore, on the other hand, has not declined at all, and furnaces are naturally looking to iron ore rather than to coke at this time for means of reducing their costs further. They are in somewhat improved position as to labor cost in making pig iron, since labor has become more industrious and it requires fewer men than formerly to run a blast furnace, while at some furnaces overtime payments have been discontinued. There has been no reduction in the hourly rate of wages, and none is expected.

In the matter of the reduction in finished steel prices the coke operator has not fared particularly well, for with respect to tonnage demand for coke he is in much the same position as the merchant furnaces, and many furnaces make no secret of their dissatisfaction with the steel price adjustment. They claim finished steel prices were not cut as deeply as they should have been, when pig iron was cut as it was, and assert that if steel prices had been reduced more there would be heavy consumption of steel, hence more demand for pig iron. The increased pig iron demand would, of course, produce in turn a heavier demand for coke.

Even with the reduction in pig iron, coke stands at a low ratio to pig iron by comparison with the standards that have obtained in the past. As matters stood before the war, with pig iron at a very low level buyers held that the ratio ought to be eight to one while sellers would admit nothing beyond about seven to one. Each party asserted that as pig iron advanced the ratio should change, say to six to one when pig iron was at a moderate price, and to say five and a half to one if pig iron was at a really good price. Now, however, with basic pig iron at $26.75, Valley, and coke at $4.00 there is a ratio of 6.67 to one, and that means a lower price for coke than would obtain under the principle formerly recognized by both furnace and coke operators.

The last market before the war that involved anything like satisfactory prices to either coke producers or furnace was in the summer of 1912, when sales of coke for July and for the second half were made at $2.50, when basic pig iron was $14.50. Valley, the proportion in that case being 5.8 to one. Now, with prices much higher, a less favorable ratio for coke obtains.

The Pittsburgh district coal market continues extremely sluggish. There is a little demand for high grade gas coal, which brings good prices, up to $2.70 for 8-in. coal, and there is some demand for by-product coal, which is held at about $2.35. For steam coal there is a supply and demand, and the limited quantities offered are a drag on the market.

Demand for pig iron has shown little if any improvement since the price reduction announced last Friday, but it is a little too early to judge what effect the reduction will have. Furnaces do not seem to be in a unit as to adjustment of contracts. In the case of the $3 reduction at the first of the year, nearly all furnaces made the concession on contract, though some not delivered, although legally the contracts were firm and binding. In the present case a number of furnaces have declared they will not make any revision. Last week's price revision was a reduction of $1.25, and as a rule the price holds that this is to be temporary on the basis of government difference, so that, since there was a reduction of $3.00 a ton from government prices at the beginning of the

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

The coke trade is feeling the effects of a steady influence. This is somewhat intangible as yet, and perhaps difficult to chart out or define, but it has certain unmistakable manifestations. Following the adjustment of iron and steel prices to a new and lower basis there is a noticeable halting in the downward course of coke prices. Such change as seems in early prospect is much more likely to be in the direction of advances than declines. If the former come, as some operators confidently expect, they will be fractional, but the trend will be toward a restoration of a more equitable ratio between coke and pig iron prices than now obtains.

It is too early to estimate to what extent the steel and iron price adjustment will stimulate a heavier movement of steel and resultant larger production of pig iron, but the drift is plainly in the direction of better trade conditions. The coke trade feels that the turning point is being approached. If not already reached in preparation for it there has been a continuation of the restriction regulations. The short work week and additions to the list of idle ovens marked the course of last week as it has of each of the seven weeks preceding. A total of 1,444 ovens were placed on the inactive list reducing the region's active equipment to 141 per cent in number and materially less in productive capacity. Production dropped to $7.94, the extreme low point of the year and the lowest since 1914.

Other suits at $20 and up to $60, with a special blue suit at $19.25.

year all prices should now be $7.25 below government levels, with former differentials and basing points retained, and the market is now quotable on that basis, with the exception that malleable is offered at 50 cents above basic iron, when the old differential was 50 cents above foundry iron, which in turn was $1.00 above basic. The market is thus quotable as follows:

Bestmaker ..... $27.95
Basic ..... $25.75
No. 2 foundry ..... $26.75
Malleable ..... $26.50
Forge ..... $25.75

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should rest less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of water. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well. Adv.

ADJUSTMENT OF STEEL PRICES A COMPROMISE BETWEEN EXTREMES

One Party Wanted No Reduction, the Other a Heavy One; Too Early to Notice Effects of the Cut.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trades tomorrow as follows: As a result of conferences last week between the industrial board of the Department of Commerce and a committee representing iron and steel producers, pig iron has been reduced $1.25 and unfinished steel $5 gross ton, while a few rolled steel products have been reduced $5 and the majority $7 per net ton, rails being set at $47, or $10 a gross ton under the price the War Industries Board recommended last September but which the Railroad Administration did not approve.
